Message from the President

The State Gem and Mineral Show which was held on 23 & 24 September and from all accounts it was a good show. The weather was very kind and we had sunshine with only a light breeze. The GEMKHANA results are being published in this newsletter. Congratulations to all the competitors for completing their entries and for those that were successful in winning an award.

The Northern Districts Lapidary Club won the Frank Hall Trophy for the Most Successful Club – Congratulations.

We had six lapidary clubs who took a table in the exhibition hall; they were Blaxland Gem & Mineral Club, Central Coast Lapidary Club, Western Suburbs Lapidary Club, Northern Districts Lapidary Club, Port Hacking Lapidary Club and the Sydney Branch of Australian Facetors Guild. Each of these clubs had a good time and is looking forward to next year.

Barbara J Try O.A.M. President.

Faceting and Cabbing Whilst Travelling Part Two

One of the main problems I find when trying to facet whilst travelling, apart from the dust in the air, is finding a suitable chair to use. Camp chairs lay back too far so you have to sit right on the front edge, which is OK for a short time, but quite uncomfortable after a while and camp stools are too low.

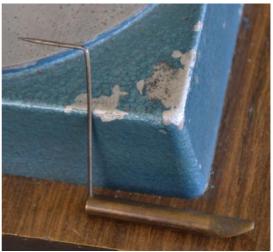

On one of my visits to Yowah Bunninng (tip), I came across a portable shower chair with a back. It is designed to be pulled apart for travel. It breaks down into 6 pieces. Two U shaped aluminium tubing for the leas (which have height adjustment), 2 L shaped aluminium tubes to go from the seat to the back rest and the two plastic pieces for the seat and backrest. It is quite comfortable to sit on and with the height adjustment and being lightweight it is ideal for a traveling faceting seat. The only thing that was wrong with it was two of the rubber feet were missing. Problem solved with 2 large washer and two milk bottle plastic caps and a bit of silastic to hold them in place. This will do till I get to a real Bunnings and buy some new feet. I have a car seat cover back home also that has never been used, that will do nicely to provide a bit more padding and comfort.

As I mentioned in part one I was not happy with the way the Agatemaster index wheel attaches to the head unit/quill. Before we left for this year's travel to warmer areas one of our club members had sold an old style Gemmaster to another one of our members who had just done the faceting course. Unfortunately, they were not able to cut a good stone as the machine was way out of alignment, so they returned the machine. As the original owner was considering just using the machine as a small flat lap, I offered to have a look and see what I could do. Just using the alignment jig that came with my VJ faceting machine (basically a dop with a bent pin in the end) showed that the Gemmaster was indeed way out of alignment

G&L News

As the owner had now decided he would use it as a flat lap as it looked as though the mast or the base plate may possibly be bent. I asked if I could see if the head and or mast would fit my Agatemaster, he agreed for me to have it at least for now.

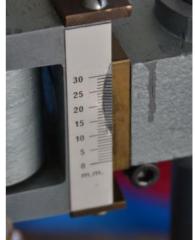

When we finally stopped travelling and stayed in one place long enough it was time to have a look at the Gemmaster mast and head unit along with the Agatemaster. Well, the Gemmaster shaft does not fit the Agatemaster stage, but the head unit slides right on. If I could get it to work it will mean that I can use my Gemmaster quill at the Club and while travelling. I purchased my own Gemmaster quill ages ago as the ones at the club were always missing or someone had left their stones in them.

Using my VJ alignment jig showed that the Gemmaster head was out of alignment, so it was not the mast or base plate. On looking at the head unit it appears that it must have been dropped or fell against something as there is quite a dent in the height ajustment scale, this is what I believe put the head unit out of alignment.

Not long after I purchase my secondhand VJ machine we went to a Gemboree in QLD, where I ran into the guy who made the VJ's. As I did not have a manual for the VJ, I asked what various jigs etc were for. He gave me a basic manual on my old VJ and mentioned a maintenance video that was made at one of the Faceting Guild's gathering years ago and covered 4 deferent machines. A copy of the video was apparently sent out to Clubs. I found a copy at our Club and watched the one on the VJ and Gemmaster (unfortunately no Agatemaster). As a result, I was able to work out how to attempt to realign the Gemmaster head just using my VJ jig and a square as a guide (it can be no worse than it was).

I have not been able to try it out yet, as we are in South West QLD and there is too much dust in the air, so apart from using the roughing in diamond lap I would run a big chance of contaminating my other laps. I will just have to wait till I get somewhere less dusty or till I get home.

As a post script. The Gemmaster head unit still needs further alignment as I only had access to a cheap plastic square it's not surprising that I did not get it aligned on the first try.

Part three to come.
